“ Ben lived across the street from me growing up and was my best friend thru grade school. He was a dare devil as a kid, catching bees in a jar, building snow ramps to sled over, and sledding down a steep hill filled with trees (he ended up breaking his arm). I will remember fondly all the times we spent hiking the hill behind his house, catching salamanders in the creek, skating on their swamp/pond, and riding bikes on their long driveway.

“ Ben was a strong presence in our family. I have so many fond childhood memories. Ben and Rich graduated from mischievous little boys to mischievous teenagers. Together they were a force to be reckoned with. Ben and Margo loved hosting family gatherings at their home, with Ben providing all the burned hot dogs Jan could eat because he knew she loved them. If you needed his help you could always count on him to be there. We will miss him very much. May he rest in peace.
