“ A big sister is someone you have from the day you were born . Someone you share things with that are only known by the two of you. She would practice her violin at the same time I practiced my clarinet and we took piano lessons together when we were growing up. Too many memories to put on one page. What a reunion we will have some day when the four of us are together once more in Heaven. Thank you for the years we had and I am looking forward to the ones in our future with love. Doris
