I've got a million of them. But I would trade them all for one more day with him. I always admired him and wanted to be just like him. He is why I learned guitar, had an interest in cars, collect guitars, and so many ways attempted to emulate him. When he was young it was like having James Dean as a brother. He always stood up for me , in fact there was a time when we lived in Hallstead that a young man from the next street over was bullying me and beat me up. Jack took over and beat the bully , his older brother, and before he was done their father as well . And although I cannot endorse the violent actions that resulted , it was neither the first or the last time he came to my aid. In his defense , I believe he was in 9th grade (youthful exuberance). He was always there to act as my partner in crime , although he had accomplices (you know who you are) . Of course being close in age , we fought often and sometimes there were injuries (a destroyed cabin in Canada, many welts from point blank bb gun shootouts, sneakers ripped apart by intentional assaults with a riding mower , and even an arrow shot into my poor brother's head, and all that time , through these and countless other attacks . We both knew we were brothers and we loved each other deeply. Here's where I have to give tremendous credit to Connie his wife of 51 years. She stabilized him and his life. It is completely unfair that she will be deprived of his company for the remainder of her life. They were a perfect match. And they shared a love that will continue.

“ We have fond memories of both Jack and Connie when we were neighbors. Our son would watch from the front window when Jack and Roger were stretching for their run. He called it “The Jack and Roger Show.” We are so sorry for your loss, Connie, Darci and family. Prayers for comfort and peace at this difficult time.

“Connie, Darci and Matt. Jack was fun to be around and I had a great time coaching with and against him. Always a smile and a short story. I really had a good time when we played softball together on the 35 + older teams. Always the total effort no matter what the results were. My condolences to the family and thank you for sharing him with us. God speed Jack. You have earned it.
