“ It's hard to put into words a love-print left on your life. Pop was a man of action, a doer, not flowery speeches or empty words but a straight forward "I love you" kinda guy. He demonstrated this love by hugs,lots of hugs, staying in touch by phone or email, including me in holidays, enjoying a meal together peppered with lots of laughter,supporting me in my art endeavors. All of these kindnesses long after his son, my husband, Bobby had died. Last, but certainly not least,waving goodbye until you were out of sight. That was what Pop was doing the last time I saw himwaving goodbye till I was out of sight. Scripture tells about us not sorrowing like those without hope ... for thru the love of Christ dying on the cross we who believe there will be a day of glad reunion. Until that day in our heavenly Father's house I will ever be grateful for the earthly "Pop" he graciously gave me to love and be loved by. Linda "Lily" Treible
