“ Bobbie was my father Eddie Shimsky's cousin. They spent a lot of time growing up together, and my father loved her to pieces. And it's not too hard to understand why, because Bobbie was one of the most kindhearted people ever. She always had a way of making anyone she spoke with feel happy and loved. I really looked forward to seeing her at the Glinka family reunions.

When each of my two children were born, Bobbie sent two outfits. When my son was born, she tried to make sure that they were sized bigger, so that I would have a head start on the second winter's wardrobe. But Isaac grew so fast, I ended up needing them when he was four months old -- it provided a "big" discussion topic at that year's reunion. For my daughter, Bobbie made two dresses with beautiful traditional smocking on the top. To honor Bobbie's generosity, we gave one away so that someone else could enjoy it, but I really wanted to save the other one as a keepsake for my daughter and her children. We'll treasure it -- and her memory -- always.
