“ My condolences to the Coleman family. Tim and I grew up together from first grade and on. We did a lot of back & front yard camp outs in the summer, rode bikes and played a lot of sports together. One camping trip we kinda overstayed for a few days behind Cosmello's junk yard. Needless to say Tim's Dad, Clifford, and my mom went tramping through the junkyard looking for us. We both ended up in the doghouse for quite awhile. When we graduated from high school we both worked at Magnetic Labs on the evening shift. After work we would go to the Shell station and play poker until dawn. One summer evening we both decided we needed a change and direction in life. In July 1977 we both signed up to join the Navy together and went to boot camp in Sep 77. After boot camp he and I both went to our next duty station for our school training. Tim went on to his first duty station USS Lawrence DDG-4 and I was in Washington, DC. On occasions Tim would would catch a ride up to DC and we would come home to visit family and friends. So many stories to tell what we did together. I'm very grateful to have known Tim and I will always remember our great times together.
